

Expanded Schedule For Campus Station

On October 1 the campus radio station, WNTC, a joint enterprise of both colleges, commenced its fall schedule of broadcasts. This year, which marks the station's inaugural as a full member of the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System, shows promise of being the most dependable and successful of any period in the club's brief history.

Equipment Supplemented

Due to the expansion of the colleges' campuses, provision has been made to give more efficient and longer-range service. The limited broadcasting equipment has been supplemented with the modern and more powerful equipment which had been in operation at the Clarkson Malone Branch.

In addition, a wider variety of programs has been planned with emphasis upon student talent and ingenuity. Tentatively planned is "Show Time", a program which will endeavor to present skits and plays in an effort to provide an opportunity for students to gain experience in every phase of a radio production. The group will be comprised of a mixed team of teachers and students of both colleges. Many other innovations appear in the offing with a definite probability of a Sunday afternoon broadcast of music.

Repeat Popular Programs

Several of the shows which had received welcome response in previous years will again be on the air. Among these are the popular Saturday night program, "Ten Till When", as also, "Vocally Yours", which features Potsdam's adequate competition to the "Lonesome Gal". And as usual, as many special events and athletic contests that are possible to broadcast will receive extra attention.

New Personnel Still Welcome

The station wishes to announce that many opportunities are still available to those interested in the many branches of radio work, and to renew its standing invitation to everyone that they are welcome to visit the studios during any of the operating hours.

WNTC expects to install the transmitter that was used in Malone in Potsdam in about two weeks. This will give the station an increased power output, thereby affording wider coverage by the station.

The Clarkson Dramateachers will turn to a new medium soon when they start broadcasting radio plays at the campus radio station WNTC. The first play is scheduled for November 1.
